To Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman

‹Bristol, England› The writer is sending drawings by her sister and herself, accompanied by works of other artists, for the Anti-Slavery fair. Some of the writer's pupils are also sending offerings. Tells of the residences and professions of her three brothers. Having read the National Anti-Slavery Standard with interest, the writer regrets "that there are so many divisions among the Abolitionists." Remarks that Garrison "seems to me to mistake what was the position of the Dissenters before the repeal of the Test & Corporation Act." Explains the true facts. Refers to the persecution of Abolitionists in America and the good fortune of colored people in England.

[Bristol, England] The writer thanks the addressee for a letter, hopes that Bristol will contribute as much to the coming A.S. fair as it did last November. Tells at length of her horror of slavery. Is surprised that so many worthy and pious people are opposed to the Abolitionists. Suggests that it may be due to the violence of their language. The writer distributed Liberty Bells to various acquaintances. Tried to get her brother Russell to send his remarks on Jewish slaveholding to the addressee. Lacks time to read the Standard and so declines recieving it any more. Remarks on the hesitancy of the English female Abolitionists.

«Bristol, England» Tells of the pleasure derived from preparing "the box" (for Boston). Garrison "has formed strong personal friendships" in Bristol; the writer feels it a great privilege to be reckoned among his friends. In this connection the writer quotes Tasso in Italian. Asks why the addressee does not come to England.

[Bristol, England] The writer remembers the inspiring visit of Dr. (Joseph) Tuckerman and thinks Garrison's visit had a similar effect. "Though many feel as we do about his visit," others "will have been repelled from the Abolitionists by his language... and by his entering on subjects which they think quite foreign to slavery..." The writer discourses on the moral force of Christianity; extols Dr.Channing for showing its bearing on political questions. George Thompson and Elihu Burritt, while orthodox, "showed that there is a common Christianity."

Nevertheless, a number of voluntary contributions came in, and the "little exhibition" held in the writer's drawing-room was visited by more than 200 persons. Tells of the indignation felt by the writer's class of "ragged boys & girls" who, thinking of the United States as the land of slavery, "were astonished that it was inhabited by Englishmen!" 1772 ? Church, Benjamin, 1734-1776 ? physician.

Deposition.

[Boston?] Testifies that he accompanied Doctor Eleazer Carver to the house of Captain William Bennet in September 1770, and heard Bennet offer Carver the sum of forty shillings a month for the voyage to the coast of Africa; that Bennet answered his protest at the low wages with a statement that the physician on board his ship always attended on board other ships and made much money; states that no agreement was made as to Carver's attendance upon other of Bennet's ships; finds the charges in the account against Daniel McCarty to be reasonable. To William Lloyd Garrison

«Cincinnati, (Ohio)» Says that Benjamin Lundy has been in Cincinnati for six or eight weeks following a return from a tour of Canada. Is planning to establish "a permanent footing" in Mexico for colored people who prefer that country to Canada. Doubts if a negro college could be established in the U.S. Mentions the state laws which prohibit or regulate the travel of free colored people between states. "... we of the Southern & Western states would not be enabled to avail ourselves of educating our children in a New Haven colledge." Favors building the college in Ohio or in a state bordering on it. Asks for back numbers of the Liberator.

To Isaac Knapp No.37

[Philadelphia] Accepts with pleasure a draft for $100. Hopes that I. K.'s philanthropic efforts "will be richly rewarded in a pecuniary way." Thinks that the demand for W.L.Garrison's Thoughts on Colonization must necessarily increase. A Mr. Hinton is sending the minutes of a recent convention. The Liberators have been delivered regularly. Doubts if the New England Anti-Slavery Society's intention to found a manual labor school will have any effect in Philadelphia, where nothing has been planned anyway. The Philadelphia Abolitionists intend to suggest W. L. Garrison to A. Tappan as an agent to collect funds in England.

To William Lloyd Garrison No.9

«Philadelphia» It is hard to increase the number of subscribers to the Abolitionist owing to the extensive unemployment among colored people in winter. Asks W.L.G. to send the Abolitionist to the new subscribers whom he names. Gives a list of subscribers to the Liberator. Accounts for the money received from the sale of the Thoughts on Colonization. Tells of meeting Benjamin Lundy.

To Anne Warren Weston

[Boston.] Asks for copy for the February number of the Offering. The addressee's "piece of poetry" will go into the February number. The writer received from Oliver Johnson a copy of a letter "put into J[ames] S[loan] Gibbons hands by J[ames] G. Birney from England," which "purports to seek the truth in relation to the differences between old & new organization." Johnson suspects a plan "to destroy the character of the old society thro' Mr. [John A.] Collins."

To Edmund Quincy No.102

«New York» A confidential communication about the necessity of finding an editor for the National Anti-Slavery Standard until the return of (Nathaniel Peabody) Rogers. " James C. Jackson is a spirited writer but his field is eminently the platform;" he has been "doing grandly" in western New York the last few weeks.. James S. Gibbons has time only for an occasional article. Transmits reports about the condition of the Friend of Man and the Emancipator. William Goodell's "recent assault upon the Standard has made us friends & lost him many." The writer maintains that "my health is not equal to the position I occupy." T[illegible] chief difficulties of the Standard are past, as six nu[illegible] have been issued and there are about seven hundred subs[illegible]rs.
